

TRUCKERS DELIVER THE GOODS

As a more than three-billion-dollar-a-year industry, truck transportation keeps the economy moving—with hardworking drivers who pick up, transport and deliver freight to all corners of the country. From local to long-haul, many of these professional truckers are owner-operators who depend on their vehicles to keep their businesses running strong.

“Early one morning, my commercial vehicle was involved in an accident. The truck was towed and by 10 a.m., your adjuster was assessing the situation. By 1 p.m., he’d ordered the necessary parts for repair of my truck. He also worked with me to keep the truck on the road until the parts could be obtained, minimizing lost time and revenue to my company. He was very proactive in keeping me advised of the status of the repair timetable at all times and I was truly impressed by the level of service Progressive provided.”
